Why You Should Attend

Everyone eats... But few understand the laws, ethics, politics and economics behind the food industry. Enjoy a private screening of the critically-acclaimed documentary Food Inc. and learn from a top expert in the region eye-opening facts & laws that control how food is farmed, produced, marketed, packaged, distributed, sold, and presented to the public. Explore the food industry's legal & ethical duties to disclose at several relevant points along the path between the farm and your table. Explore knotty ethical issues arising from genetically engineered food, FDA compliance and how food producers & the advertising industry can legally "cheat" the system. Explore the politics and economics that allow a handful of "mega-producers" to control the food industry and at times mislead the public. Understand what really goes on along the path from the farm to your table.

Faculty

James Dunn is one of the top regional experts on the food industry. He is a professor of Agricultural Economics and the Agribusiness Management Program Coordinator for Penn State University, Main Campus. Professor Dunn has traveled all over the world, studying farming and the food industry. He is an expert on FDA compliance laws, agriculture marketing (including "duties to disclose"), agriculture laws & policy, and agricultural economics. Jim has won numerous awards for his teaching and work, including the W. LaMarr Kopp International Achievement Award, Penn State's Community of Teaching Excellence Award in 2011, and the Gamma Sigma Delta Teaching Award in 2012. His teaching style is very down-to-earth and no doubt reflective of his childhood growing up on a South Dakota farm. Professor Dunn will be traveling from State College, Pennsylvania for this class.
